

Peer Editing for Introduction and Literature Review

Share the chart below with your peers and use the chart to record the feedback you give and receive.

Use the following questions to guide your feedback (feel free to add your own insights):

- Does the introduction introduce the research question and project goals?
- Does the introduction identify a gap in the current field of knowledge?
- Does the literature review include relevant works from the field from a variety of perspectives?
- Does the literature review synthesize and organize the scholarly literature in an effective way (clear/easy to understand)?
- Does the introduction/literature review provide enough context for an educated nonexpert to understand the topic under study and the purpose of the study?
- Based on the rubric would the paper score a 3, 4, or 5 in the first 2 rows?

Feedback Chart

| Name of Peer Editor(who edited yourpaper) | Peer Editor Feedback (receive)                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                            |
|---------------------------------------------------|---------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------|
| Vishnu Khatri                                     | I really like your topic for the paper. Your introduction discusses the topic and the research questions that will be posed for the research project. Your topic of how algorithms impact small digital artists is very narrow and nuanced. You explain the research gap that exists in relation to the topic as well. I like how you clearly state that while there has been research regarding how algorithms create anxiety among the individuals who create the content that is distributed online, there has been no research into how this impacts small digital artists and their concept of their artistic identity. The literature review is appropriate for the topic and well organized. Each of the authors are clearly discussed and the information is relevant to to the lit review. Some of the sentences could be improved however, to show synthesis among these authors rather than merely introducing each author and their information one at a time. Some of the sentences in the introduction are long and repetitive as well. Additionally, certain terms should be given operational definitions. Words like algorithmic gatekeeping and creative identity. Overall, I would give this response solid points and likely a 4 but with a few changes it will be to a 5 |

|                                                                                                                                                                                                                              |                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                       |
|------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------|-----------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------|
| Pratha ShahScore: 4                                                                                                                                                                                                      | <ul style="list-style-type: none"> <li>- Make sure you cite your work like when you mention researcher Brooke Bucher.</li> <li>- Good job introducing background on digital media platforms to help audience understand the issue you are focusing on</li> <li>- Introduced goal of paper well as well as the gap in the introduction</li> <li>- Ideas are separated by a numbered format and it keeps the lit review well organized</li> <li>- Go in a little more depth about what each study/interview consists of so the audience has more understanding of the topic. For example, when connecting Gillespi and Noble's conclusions, there is still confusion on how they established that algorithms control visibility of online feeds.</li> <li>- Very organized and well written</li> </ul>                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                  |
| Author name and link to their paper.(paper you edited)                                                                                                                                                                   | My Feedback (give)                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                    |
| Vishnu Khatrihttps://docs.google.com/document/d/1Vb1F6RE8GtskTd9BWzmYX4fWrGfHiATQrs5A_RadLpw/edit?tab=t.0 | I like your paper's angle for school policy (how it treats it like an incentive system). In specific I like how it introduces a sharp angle: the emotional wellbeing of students. It explains that the school policies can shape a student's choices and academic decision making. I think your introduction is good and sets up the gap well because it focuses on student-decision making rather than only fairness or a specific desired outcome. I would push further for the connection between your exact research question and the evidence in your lit review. The sources you present talk about stress and enrollment however your question is specifically about intrinsic vs extrinsic motivation. Because of that, I think defining those terms operationally could make the paper stronger. I also think you could make it clearer whether your main focus is class rank visibility, GPA weighting, or the combination of both, since right now both are important but the paper leans more heavily toward rank. Based on the rubric I would put this around a 4 for the first two rows because the topic, gap, and organization are strong, but the alignment between the lit and exact motivation focus could be tighter. |

|  |  |
|--|--|
|  |  |
|--|--|